Please tell us what sourcing locally means to your restaurant.

How does it impact the way you do business? In addition to detailing foods/products you source locally, you might consider telling us about products you source that are raised sustainably.

We buy as much as possible from local or regional sources. Our pork, chicken, lamb, bison are all local and some of our beef is also. During the summer and early fall, we get almost all our produce local as well.

Please give specific examples of products that your restaurant consistently buys from a local source. Be sure to indicate the source of the product.

We are proud members of Braise RSA and we also buy from Growing power which includes all of our salad greens as well as spinach and herbs.
